2019 MSDA Young Alumnae Catching Up Party

Dear Friends,

THE MOUNT— A SCHOOL. A JOURNEY. A SISTERHOOD. 250 current students and thousands of alumnae have called the Mount home. It's a place where students come to learn. It's a feeling of belonging. It's a lifelong bond that can't be broken. As the students go about their very busy days, they are establishing that sisterhood whether or not they're conscious of its formation. They're waiting for each other in the hall, they're baking cupcakes for their classmates, and they're sticking post-it notes with kind words on everyone's locker.

It's that bond that offers supportive words after a tough calculus test, applauds a hard-earned professional achievement, and provides light moments through dark days. While often unspoken, the Mount sisterhood is loud, and speaks volumes to the shared experiences that bond Mounties for a lifetime. We are grateful that so many Mounties have visited campus this year, drawn back to their roots, to their home, and to each other. We celebrate all of you – Mounties of yesterday, today and tomorrow – and hope you enjoy this issue of The Mount.

A BRONX TALE: A VISIT WITH FORDHAM'S MOUNTIES

MSDA ALUMNAE DIRECTOR KATE SULLIVAN '88 VISITS UNDERGRAD ALMA MATER TO BRING A LITTLE MOUNT THE MOUNTIES

With a history that dates back to 1841, Fordham University is the oldest Catholic and Jesuit university in the northeastern United States, and is currently home to 12 Mount alumnae. Just about an hour away from the Mount's home in Caldwell, Fordham's Rose Hill campus is set on more than 80 tree-lined acres and is where most of the Fordham Mounties attend their classes (with the Lincoln Center campus providing an immersive Big Apple experience as well).

A popular school among Mount graduates, Fordham has been listed as one of the country's "hidden ivies*" – a distinction bestowed on 63 colleges and "universities of excellence" that "rival the Ivy League."

As a Fordham alumna (class of '92, Lincoln Center), I was excited to meet up with my fellow Rams at Rose Hill this past November. Walking across the beautiful campus, crews were busy at work breaking down a massive tent from the prior weekends' homecoming as others were decorating for the upcoming Christmas holiday. While I feared locating MSDA alumna Julia Baum '16 amid the buzz of Duane Library might be difficult, the lovely woman who greeted me said, "Oh Julia! Everyone around here knows Julia!"

In the middle of preparing for finals and the upcoming Thanksgiving break, Julia was generous with her time and provided a tour of campus with impressive insights and a deep knowledge of the history of the school as well as the curriculum, clubs and other opportunities offered for students. It was no surprise to learn that Julia is very active in campus life, and in addition to serving as the University Ambassador Chair for the Rose Hill Society, she is also involved in the Pep Band, Choir and Campus Ministry. An Interdisciplinary Math and Economics major, Julia has her sights set on a career in financial services, affirmed after a successful summer internship at Mariner Wealth Advisors in 2019.

Sitting down with the seven MSDA alumnae who were able to carve out time from their busy days to stop for a coffee and a chat, provided an illuminating glimpse into the very demanding and deliberate lives of not only these determined and yes, empowered, young women, but also the more than 300 Mount alumnae currently pursuing undergraduate degrees at more than 130 colleges and universities. Their drive and self-awareness was balanced by their collective willingness to help guide their Mount sisters by offering to speak to them about what to expect when making the transition from high school to college and host them to campus visits.

The desire to help guide future Mounties was heart-warming, and testament to the sisterhood Mounties carry with them long after graduation, and even while they're far from home. Emailing from her apartment in Granada, Spain, Lindsey Patterson '17, who is studying abroad this semester, noted, "I am happy to host or talk to any girls interested in Fordham or to arrange a stay or tour for them with Fordham friends while I am abroad in Spain this spring."

These Fordham Rams are making the most of what college has to offer them, and at the same time they're making an impact on their college and local community as well. Not one of these undergrads is taking this opportunity lightly – a level of involvement and commitment no doubt displayed by other Mount alumnae at colleges and universities around the country and abroad. To highlight each individual's major, minor, sport, club, community service, job, and much more would exhaust the remaining space in this magazine but even a brief sample is enough to inspire and impress. Members of the Mount Alumnae and Advancement teams look forward to visiting young alumnae on campus at their colleges in the months and years to come.

An MSDA Class Trip Foretells a Career

ALUMNA Spotlight: Jennifer Chiappone '12, Publishing Assistant at United States Holocaust Memorial Museum

There are moments in life that inspire, that when reflected upon can bring a sense of clarity and insight. And then there are others, that when remembered, can seem positively surreal. So is the case with Jennifer Chiappone, MSDA class of 2012.

THE JOURNEY

As she reflects on a Mount class trip to the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, DC, Jen is sitting in her office at the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, DC.

Of her days as a student, Jen notes, "I remember Mrs. Diane Safko's Holocaust and Genocide class the most. We took a field trip with Holocaust survivors to the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum. My eyes were opened to the importance of learning about history, and the importance of a well-thought-out museum setting. And now I am working here! It's kind of surreal!"

As the publishing assistant for The Jack, Joseph and Morton Mandel Center for Advanced Holocaust Studies at the Museum, Jen works on the Museum's scholarly journal, "Holocaust and Genocide Studies," published with Oxford University Press. In her role, Jen actively corresponds with authors and prospective authors, maintains the Center's article and book review databases, and serves as first-line editor of accepted articles and book reviews. She is also the main editor for the journal's bibliography of recently published works in the field, conducts research to source appropriate images for each article, and manages the Center's weekly editorial meetings.

Recalling her journey as well as her early inspirations, Jen said, "I have always loved art, history, and English. I have to thank my wonderful teachers at the Mount for encouraging me, including Mrs. Helen Jackson, Mr. Michael Guarducci and Mrs. Patricia Giampolo." As an undergrad at Monmouth University, Jen studied English with minors in Art, Art History, and Anthropology, and spent a semester abroad in London, where she studied at the National Gallery through Regent's University, London. These experiences cemented her passion for art history, and led her to pursue a master's degree in the field, with a concentration in Museum Training from George Washington University which she completed in 2018.

THE MUSEUM

Known as a living memorial to the Holocaust, the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum "inspires citizens and leaders worldwide to confront hatred, prevent genocide, and promote human dignity." While it maintains its presence on the National Mall, the Museum makes a worldwide impact, educating generations about the Holocaust, remembering survivors and victims, and confronting genocide and antisemitism. According to its website, the Museum "provides a powerful lesson in the fragility of freedom, the myth of progress, and the need for vigilance in preserving democratic values."

In pursuit of raising awareness, educating, and encouraging the world's sense of moral responsibility, the Museum's core programs include leadership training for a diverse cross-section of professionals including law enforcement, the judiciary and the military; onsite and traveling exhibits; and educational outreach for teachers and students. The Jack, Joseph and Morton Mandel Center for Advanced Holocaust Studies, where Jen serves as publishing assistant, is uniquely focused on fostering "the continued growth and vitality

"My eyes were opened to the importance of learning about history, and the importance of a well-thought-out museum setting. And now I am working here! It's kind of surreal!"

"It's impossible to imagine what we survivors went through—it's hard for me to understand and it happened to me. So I see it as my responsibility to share that truth."

of the field of Holocaust studies."

With a purpose and responsibility that makes this institution uniquely significant and necessary, working at the Holocaust Memorial Museum is a blend of profession, passion and mission.

"My Mount class trip to the Holocaust Memorial Museum was a wonderful and moving experience, opening my eyes to how a museum can do more than exhibit art or artifacts," Jen recalled. "Even then, I knew that this was a place I would want to work."

Working alongside the Holocaust survivors who volunteer at the Museum and speak to student groups and tourists about their experiences, has provided Jen with a unique perspective that began to take shape as a student at the Mount.

"This museum has shown me firsthand the importance of collecting - artifacts, survivor testimonies, photographs, etc. - for future generations to learn and never forget about the Holocaust and other genocides."

KAIROS

A RETREAT, A JOURNEY, A TRANSFORMATION

WHAT IS KAIROS?

The word Kairos comes from the Greek, καιρός. In simple terms, Kairos is a three or four-day retreat program for high school and college students based on Roman Catholic teachings, during which participants contemplate the role God plays in their lives.

If you ask a participant, it is so much more.

On January 24, 2020, 55 Mount juniors and seniors including nine peer retreat leaders from the class of 2020, gathered in excitement along with seven Mount faculty and staff members, and traveled to the retreat center in Kearny to begin their Kairos experience. 2020 marks the sixth year the Mount has offered students the opportunity to participate in Kairos. MSDA class years 2015 and 2016 were the first to have taken this spiritual journey together in January of 2015 – hence the nomenclature “15:06” representing the sixth retreat since the first in 2015.

With its basis in theology, philosophy, and psychology, a Kairos retreat is an experience of Christian community, set in an environment that removes the participants from their everyday lives. No distractions (i.e. no phones) meant the focus was on prayer, reflection, each young woman’s own personal theology, the role of God in their lives, and their community. Through various exercises, small group breakouts, active discussions, prayer and plenty of fun (a fire-pit with S’mores, dancing and more), the young women explored the value of their faith, their self-worth, and their relationships with God, their friends, their families and themselves. Kairos comes at a very opportune time for Mount juniors and seniors and gave students an opportunity to explore the Mount’s Kairos mantra: “Love and be loved.”

Meant to be a lived experience well beyond the conclusion of the retreat, another common phrase you can hear in the halls of the Mount these days is “Live the Fourth.” It is an encouragement to live out the promises made on the final day of the retreat, and continue the work that began in the protected and focused Kairos environment.

The meaning of Kairos and its impact is best explained in the words of the participants themselves.

“Kairos starts with delving into oneself to look deeper into who God created you to be. From there, the community that is formed on the retreat becomes one of inclusivity that in turn, encompasses the entire MSDA community as a whole. We pray together, learn together and realize our responsibility and service to each other for the greater good.”

–Christine Victori P’21, MSDA Faculty

“Kairos is something special that I have had the privilege of experiencing twice. Experiencing Kairos for the first time allowed me to form new relationships with my peers and God, while learning how to love and be loved; experiencing the retreat as a leader allowed me to help others form new relationships and understand what it means to Live the Fourth. I led this retreat with 8 other girls who have become my best friends. My first Kairos was obviously very different from my second, but both experiences were equally beautiful and have truly impacted my life in ways I can’t even begin to describe. Kairos has become a support system for me and I will forever remember the feeling of being truly loved every time

I talk, or even think about Kairos.”

– Madison Otterbein '20

"This was an outstanding experience to attend with my sisters. This weekend taught me I am loved, not just by my family and friends, but by GOD. God is the reason you are here on the Earth today. I thank him every day for allowing me to have my beautiful parents bring me into this world. Kairos 15:06 was powerful. I had such a beautiful and empowering weekend that I will never forget. Love and be LOVED!"
 - Ariana Alonso '21

"I would call Kairos a powerful experience that can be transformative for some. An experience that presents an opportunity to dig deeper into one's relationship with God, community and "self." It was an amazing experience that I am grateful to have shared with our students."
 - Mary Scheurer, MSDA Faculty

"A weekend that is transformative in so many ways for students and adults — bringing each of us closer to feeling the presence of God in one another."
 -Catherine Bolger P'12, '14, MSDA Admissions

"A weekend together - on God's time and in God's presence - where students, faculty and staff spend time as a community (re)discovering God's love, then returning to the Mount ready to share that love with our community!"
 -Rob DeCarlo, MSDA Faculty

"Kairos was a very special experience for me. I connected with girls that I didn't have a close relationship with before. I feel like the most special part of the weekend was being able to learn more about not only my peers, but about myself. I was able to reflect on my relationships in school, at home, and with God. I've never felt so much love in one place at one time, for each other, God, and myself. I am so grateful to have experienced Kairos and I will forever hold that close to my heart."
 - Sabrina Palumbo '20

LEADERS AND ENTREPRENEURS IN THE MAKING

ON NOVEMBER 21, 2019, THE MOUNT COMMUNITY WELCOMED THE INAUGURAL COHORT OF 17 STUDENTS INTO THE L.E.O. PROGRAM, WITH A PINNING CEREMONY IN THE DORIS M. BYRNE PERFORMING ARTS CENTER.

Selected by the Leonidas Foundation, MSDA is the second school to be offering the innovative program as part of the curriculum, joining Don Bosco Prep – the L.E.O. Program's pioneer school. A two-year intensive to be taught by MSDA faculty, business experts and professional entrepreneurs, the course covers the full lifecycle of creating a business or product from ideation to launch, with the tenets of "leadership, entrepreneurship and opportunity" at the foundation of the program.

Alex Cucciniello, vice president of the Leonidas Foundation, Theodore Vagias, Foundation trustee, and later in the program L.E.O. cohort member Katerina Holevas '21, warmly remembered Leonidas Vagias (brother of Alexandra Vagias '18,) who passed away in 2016 and in whose memory the Leonidas Foundation was created. Each noted elements of Leo's character like putting others before self, commitment, determination, and deep faith, which drive the Foundation's core principles of mind, body and spirit.

Jessica Iacullo '13, CEO and founder of Hungry Grl Big City, LLC, delivered the keynote address in which she reflected on her journey from the Mount to starting her successful social media marketing consultancy. In contemplating the end of the decade, Jessica noted:

"Starting this decade at the Mount and now ending it back at the Mount at age 24, and being able to say that I am now an entrepreneur, it is such a transparent thing to say that you don't always have to have an end goal or a five year plan, though those help get to the goals that you want to achieve. No one will work for you - it's the work that you put in over time that will get you to where you want to be. It won't happen overnight, but it will happen if you believe it will happen, and you work really hard to make it happen both inside the classroom and outside the classroom."

The students were then presented with their Leonidas Foundation pin by Mrs. Frances Vagias and Sister Fran, officially inducting the members of the inaugural Mount St. Dominic Academy cohort of the L.E.O. Program.

JANUARY 2020 – THE WORK BEGINS

Dr. Marissa Muoio '08, Dean of Academics, is the lead teacher of the L.E.O. Program and approaches the program with the goal of helping each student not only find their voice but also their seat at the boardroom table. The first formal meeting for the cohort focused on the "Entrepreneurship Mindset." Upcoming topics of discussion over the first several weeks of the semester will include the lean method (a product or company based on a want or need in the marketplace); the BMC or business model canvas (a strategic management tool used to define and communicate a business concept); and the ever important value proposition – the business or marketing statement a company uses to explain why a consumer should buy a product or use a service.

Alumnae guest lecturers for the program include Alexandra Arndt Ordemann '06 and Cristy Garcia Rivera '05. There are opportunities for MSDA alumnae to participate in the L.E.O. Program at the Mount. Contact Brittany Spatz '06 for more information at bspatz@msdacademy.org.

TASTE OF BROADWAY

ON OCTOBER 19, 2019, MOUNT ST. DOMINIC ACADEMY HOSTED THE "TASTE OF BROADWAY," a fundraising event commemorating the 10th anniversary season of student performances in the Doris M. Byrne Performing Arts Center (PAC).

The evening began with a wine tasting reception featuring a selection curated by Sommelier Nicholas Ciccone of Pickett's Village Bar in Maplewood, owned by Doug and Beth Sasfai P'23. Accompanying the wines were an array of Broadway-themed hors d'oeuvres honoring past MSDA productions, prepared by Della Terra Catering & Events of Montclair featuring alumna and chef, Liz Dowling '09, and warmly served by several MSDA alumnae. An art exhibit and sale (with a percentage of the proceeds benefiting the Mount) featured the expressive work of contemporary American impressionist and Mount mom Lisa Palombo P'23. The evening of entertainment by Broadway performers Liz McCartney and Stearns Matthews was expertly hosted by Emmy award winning television reporter, news anchor and alumna Teresa Priolo '01. A very active and engaged event committee comprised of Mount parents, alumnae, faculty, and staff, and headed by Kelly Sullivan King '84, P'16, '23, ensured the beauty of every detail making the event a real showstopper, enjoyed by all.

Mountie Mommies Bring their Tiny Tots to MSDA for the Holidays

What do you get when you mix Mount alumnae, their adorable children, a movie, some snacks, and Santa Claus?

An amazingly wonderful way to celebrate the Christmas season at the Mount! On Saturday, December 14, 25 Mount mommies, grandmothers and aunties came back to campus for a morning full of fun, all geared toward the guests of honor – the kids! The fun started with a movie, "An Elf's Tale," on the big screen in the Doris M. Byrne Performing Arts Center, followed by snacks and crafts in the cafeteria, and a visit from Santa Claus who took up residence in the Bishops' Dining Room. Santa's helpers were there to lend a hand as well – 17 current Mount students dressed in their festive finery. The very welcoming and relaxed visits with Santa (no long mall lines here!) provided the children with a perfect opportunity to fill the big guy in on all their gift suggestions and enabled the moms to take just as many photos as they liked!

According to Brittany Spatz '06, "the Mommy and Me Christmas event was a wonderful way to celebrate both the holiday season and this new season in my life, motherhood. I loved watching my son and the other little ones run around as my former classmates and I caught up and shared old memories. While so much has changed in our lives, it's nice to know that the doors of the Mount are still open for us."

The Mount Stage

FALL PRODUCTION:

"YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU"

Theater students brought the 1937 Pulitzer-prize winning play, "You Can't Take It with You," to the stage this fall to the delight of two packed houses. The comedic play, written by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, tells the story of good-natured stenographer Alice Sycamore, who falls in love with her powerful boss, Tony Kirby. When their drastically different families meet, lifestyles and classes collide. "You Can't Take It with You" kicked off the 10th Anniversary Season at the Doris M. Byrne Performing Arts Center.
